9. Organisation and power.
10. Organising space and technology.

Module Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this module, students will be able to...

1. 1a) Understand key concepts, theories and findings from the academic fields of organisational design and analysis.
   1b) Demonstrate a knowledge and appreciation of their applications in real life organisational situations.

2. 2a) Identify a range of organisational design and analysis issues and problems using real life examples and case studies.
   2b) Assess and diagnose organisational design and analysis problems drawing on relevant academic theory and research.
   2c) Recognise and articulate the practical implications of key theoretical and empirical developments in the fields of organisational design and analysis.

3. 3a) Present a coherent argument in writing and orally.
   3b) Judge between various forms of evidence and express the differences between them.
   3c) Express in writing and orally the skills required to address situations involving analysing, managing and evaluating change in organisations.

Learning, Teaching and Assessment Strategy

Lectures will be 1 hour per week and explore concepts, principles and theories in the nominated fields and will provide students with information required to enhance critical understanding of research and theory in organisational analysis, design and associated fields of study (LO 1a, 1b, 2a, 2b, 2c).

Lectures will be supported by a range of student-led activities in seminars 2 hours per week, giving students opportunities to develop skills of analysis through case studies and videos, to practise discipline skills in group exercises and role-plays, and undertake self-assessment of and reflection on group and individual skills and capabilities (LO: 1b, 2a, 2b, 2c, 3a, 3b, 3c).

Seminars will aid the development of skills of evaluation and assessment within the field of organisational analysis and design and the arena of people management (LO: 1a, 1b, 2a, 2b, 2c, 3a, 3b, 3c). Oral and informal feedback will be given as part of seminars (LO 3a, 3b).

Directed study will encourage students to extend the understanding of research, theory and practice of analysis and design of organisations as well as the application of and implications for people management problems and challenges (LO 1a, 1b, 2a, 2b, 2c, 3a, 3b, 3c). Assessment is in the form of two coursework assignments - one individual and one group. (LO:1a, 1b, 2a, 2b, 2c, 3a, 3b, 3c)
